Stu Stern is a Founder and CEO of Gorilla Logic, Inc., a leader in enterprise application development services and creators of open source test tools for mobile and rich Internet applications. Stern is the creator of Gorilla Logic's category-leading open-source interactive testing tools: FoneMonkey, FlexMonkey, and FlexMonkium. Prior to founding Gorilla Logic, Stern was vice president of worldwide consulting services at Sun Microsystems (now Oracle), where he spoke frequently about Java and Internet application architecture at conferences around the globe. Prior to Sun, Stern was vice president of Equity Trading Systems at PaineWebber (now UBS).

WHAT: Automating iOS User Interface Testing

Automated functional testing is crucial to the development of all but the most trivial iPhone and iPad applications. A core suite of automated functional tests provides a solid foundation for rapidly iterating product releases by ensuring that the introduction of each new feature doesn't inadvertently break pre-existing functionality.

In this class, Stern will explore how to use FoneMonkey, a free and open source tool that automates functional testing of iPhone and iPad applications, to record, edit, playback and verify application functionality on iOS simulators and devices. He also will demonstrate how FoneMonkey scripts can be embedded within objective-C programs and extended to handle arbitrarily complex application usage scenarios.

The session will conclude with a discussion related to best practices for test automation that let developers get the maximum benefit from creating the minimum number of automated tests.
